ARIZONA SENATE PASSES THREE CENT FARE MEASURE

Bill Regulating the Office of State Treasurer and One Providing For a State Purchasing Agent Also Are Passed—Court Commissioner Bill Is Recommended For Passage in the House.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 29.—In the senate today bills regulating the office of state treasurer and providing for three cent railroad fares were passed. Bills providing for the appointment of a state purchasing agent, and one relating to dependent and delinquent children were passed by the senate.

In the house the court commissioner bill was recommended for passage. The Arizona assembly, sitting as a committee of the whole, reported for passage the amendment to the federal constitution providing for the direct election of United States senators.

The bill requiring all corporations to pay their employees twice a month met vigorous opposition in committee but was finally favorably reported by a majority of three votes.

The Governor and the Birds. If anybody thinks those pretty little songsters known colloquially as hoot owls are to be made the subject of insidious legislation and are not to be accorded the rights, privileges and immunities of real game birds, he has reckoned without taking governor Hunt into consideration. For governor Hunt is interested in hoot owls. He has said so. He has said it officially and he has said it effectively. And his liking for this solemn night bird goes to such an extent that the governor has vetoed a bill recently passed by the legislature, because the bill was designed to hurt the feelings of the owls. Honest, he has. Also he calls attention to the fact that the bill did not properly recognize his owls.

But it is not hoot owls alone that have claimed the governor's attention. Those feathered sprinters known as road runners are also just now enjoying the gubernatorial favor. Likewise and moreover there are hawks—red tailed hawks, sparrow hawks and chicken hawks, or whatever kind it is that is in the habit of doing business in Arizona. It is because the legislature, in fixing up a bill providing for licensing hunters, overlooked these birds and failed to exempt them as being worthy of exemption from indiscriminate slaughter that the governor vetoed the bill. Also, he said, the lawmakers should have required all hunters, resident as well as others, to pay an annual license.

Would Heavens Another. The governor also vetoed the bill providing for a state geologist. This bill, which originated in the senate, provided that such officer should be a member of the faculty of the university of Arizona and this, Mr. Hunt said, is too much. "Haven't we other geologists in this sovereign state?" he asked. "Wherefore, then, should there be a restriction? Why should we say a university professor, and no other professor, should enjoy this plum?" This is not the exact language used by his excellency. It is merely the substance and not the form.

need to be in a hurry about this matter; anyway, the double purpose of the bill might make it unconstitutional.

Dentistry Bill. A late bill thrown into the senate hopper is a bill to regulate the practice of dentistry. Incidentally, it fixes the amount that dentists shall pay to be allowed to practice their profession and through the operation of this provision the bill gets in under the governor's veto since that call has a reference to providing revenues for the operation of the state government. Gradually, that they can get in almost any sort of bill under this call, if only they are smart enough to fix up a paragraph or so to suit the occasion.

What is said by many to be the most important bill of the session was introduced by senator C. B. Wood, of the finance committee. The object of this bill is the reorganization of the statutes relating to the conduct of the state treasurer's office.

According to a member of the finance committee, the object of the bill is to apply banking methods to the treasurer's office and in this respect it is vitally different from the law as now constituted. It is claimed that through the operation of this law, nothing more will be heard of lack of any particular fund and that there will never be a necessity for any one fund's borrowing from another.

Under the provisions of this proposed act there will be only two funds, a general fund and what will be known as a cash fund. The general fund will be drawn upon for the payment of salaries and for warrants for all other purposes will be drawn up against the cash fund.

The nature of the bill is that it treats all money other than that which goes into the general fund as appropriations; and this makes all such revenues available for any purpose, except for the payment of salaries.

Another bill introduced in the senate transfers all business now transacted by the secretary with reference to foreign corporations, to the corporation commission.

Regulating Railroads. The senate has passed a bill that regulates the business of railway corporations and provides that they shall maintain a general office in the state of Arizona. It passed another that provides a graded tax for legacies, bequests and inheritances. Both the bills were sent to the house, where they were referred to committees.

the bill providing for the publication of supreme court reports and recommending that it be passed as amended. The committee on suffrage and elections recommended the anti-lobbying bill for passage.

The bill providing for paying the campaign expenses of persons against whom the recall has been invoked was reported by the committee on constitutional mandates.

How the Bills Get In. There is much discussion as to how bills are introduced. Trust full grown statements for that.

For instance, when Mr. Moore's bill forbidding the trespassing of sheep and goats on the public highways bobbed up, somebody wanted to know under what section of the governor's call that bill came.

That was dead easy, as the sequel proved. It only took a little talk to show that the sheep and goats were in the habit of wearing out the roads by walking over them; so it was solemnly decided that when the governor urged legislation looking to the establishment of a good roads system what he meant was that sheep and goats should be debarred the privileges of trespassing upon those roads.

Some of the members were not quite convinced, however, and they suggested that Mr. Moore see the governor and have him write a sort of special call—a call for the sheep and the goats, as it were.

Mr. Kerr moved that the bill be laid on the table.

Madcock said there will be other legislatures—that there is no reason for the present one trying to do all the work there is. He said he didn't feel like trying to legislate for it.

Under the provisions of this proposed act there will be only two funds, a general fund and what will be known as a cash fund. The general fund will be drawn upon for the payment of salaries and for warrants for all other purposes will be drawn up against the cash fund.

The nature of the bill is that it treats all money other than that which goes into the general fund as appropriations; and this makes all such revenues available for any purpose, except for the payment of salaries.

MOORS MAY AGAIN MAKE ATTACK ON FEZ

Rumor of Massacre of Prominent People False, but Attack Is Probable.

Paris, France, May 29.—Neither the French foreign office nor the newspapers have received any further news concerning the reported attack by Moorish tribesmen on Fez.

It was reported last night from Madrid that the rumor was current in the lobby of the Spanish chamber of deputies that Fez had been stormed by the Moors and that general Lyautey, the new French resident governor, as well as Eugene Regnault, French minister to Morocco, and their staffs had been massacred.

Not the slightest credence is attached to this report in authoritative circles.

MOREY TELLS HOW CANE PRODUCERS LOST

Trust Took Brand Off Sugar Sacks and Reduced the Price 10 Cents.

New York, N. Y., May 29.—Chester S. Morey, president of the Great Western Sugar company, and a defendant in the suit in equity instituted by the government with the object of causing the dissolution of the so-called "sugar trust," continued as a witness today. Counsel for the government introduced a letter written by the witness to Henry O. Havemeyer, dated February 20, 1904, in which Morey said he was attempting to create a bigger demand for the beet sugar in Colorado by selling it 10 cents a hundred pounds cheaper than the market price of cane sugar. The letter also spoke of a 5 cent reduction at Missouri points, and proceeded:

"All of the sugar shipped to the eastern market this year has been under the brand, 'Extra fine dry granulated sugar.'"

"Next year every bag of sugar will be turned out without any distinctive brand, merely using the name on the bottom of the sack to identify the factory from which it is shipped."

The government did not press the point as to whether this meant that the sugar was sold as cane sugar in eastern markets.
